

JOHN A. LOGAN COLLEGE

Highway Construction Careers Training Program

(Funded by the Illinois Department of Transportation)

CLASSES BEGIN: FEBRUARY 25, 2019

John A. Logan College will offer its Highway Construction Careers Training Program (HCCTP) this fall semester. The program was established to help increase the number of minorities, females and disadvantaged individuals working on IDOT Highway Construction Projects.

The course will consist of 450 hours of intensive training in both a classroom and hands-on environment allowing students to learn the skills necessary for acceptance into the various highway construction trades and the opportunity for a career with excellent wage and benefits.

Successful candidates must be at least 18 years old, have a high school diploma or GED, have a valid driver's license and consent to random drug screening.
