Educational Interpreting Online

Opportunity doesn't knock...

...it Clicks

Today, every educational interpreter needs the right connections. Here they are:
www.jalc.edu/ipp

The standards for interpreters keep rising. To stay in the field interpreters need to become life-long learners. The state of Illinois, and many other states, have adopted new standards for interpreters working in K-12 educational settings. John A. Logan College, a leader in online interpreter education, has responded to the need by creating this unique online program.

Our certificate program is offered part-time so that participants can continue to work while taking classes. We also offer a totally online accredited degree program in educational interpreting. We create a distance learning experience that feels like you are in your own backyard.

Entry Requirements

To qualify for the program a student should have an associate's degree in sign language interpreting and/or have work experience as an interpreter.

How to Apply

Illinois students pay in-district rates. Out-of-state students pay out-of-state rates. If you are a returning student, you can register on-line for the courses. Go to John A. Logan College's website: www.jalc.edu. If you haven't applied to John A. Logan College, you can apply for admission online.

Equipment Needed
